Bureau of Chemical Residue Laboratories, Florida Dept. of Agriculture and Consumer Services

379 seafood samples analyzed between January 2002 and December 2007

51 samples had findings for antibiotics that do not have tolerances.

21 samples were reported a violative

30 samples were reported as "no tolerance" but "no action indicated"

2002: 323 shrimp and crab samples analyzed for chloramphenicol. 32 positives

2004: 32 shrimp and crab samples analyzed for chloramphenicol. 1 positive

2005: 19 catfish samples analyzed for fluoroquinolones (9 analyzed by FDA). 15 positive

2007: 16 catfish samples analyzed for fluoroquinolones. 3 positive

Imports versus Domestic Seafood

Most seafood analyzed was imported product.

In the case of chloramphenicol, we conducted a survey.

11 samples were US product, 1 was of unknown origin and all others were imported.

The worksheet "Seafood_samples_analyzed" shows the countries of origin.

Analyses for fluoroquinolones focused entirely on product from China and Vietnam.

All findings of antibiotics were from imported samples from SE Asia.
